

Presidents' Heights Facts

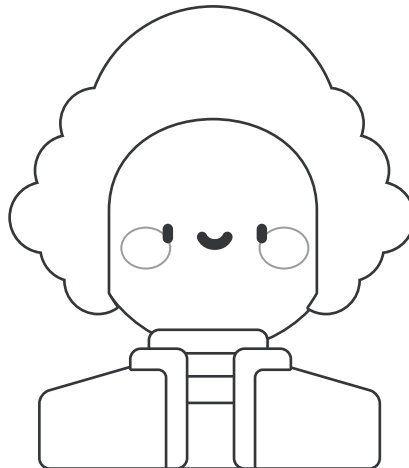

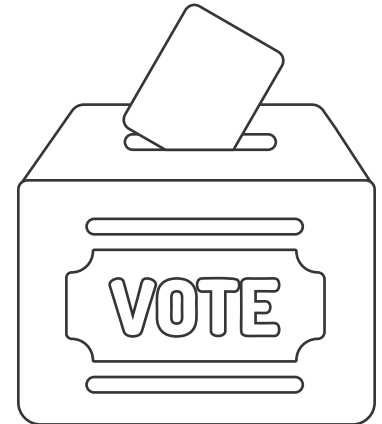

10 Fun Facts About Presidents' Heights

The tallest president was Abraham Lincoln, the 16th president, at 6 feet 4 inches which were impressive during the civil war as the average height of the soldiers was around 5 feet 6 inches.

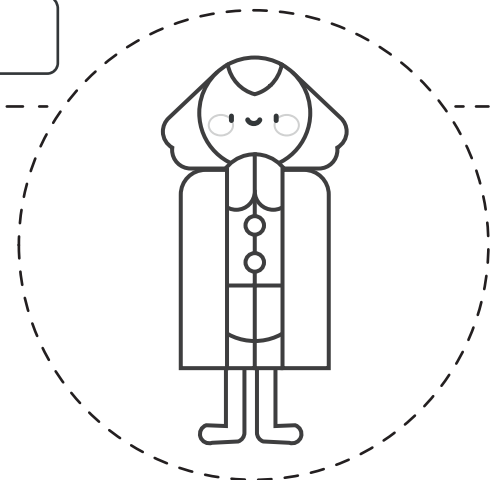

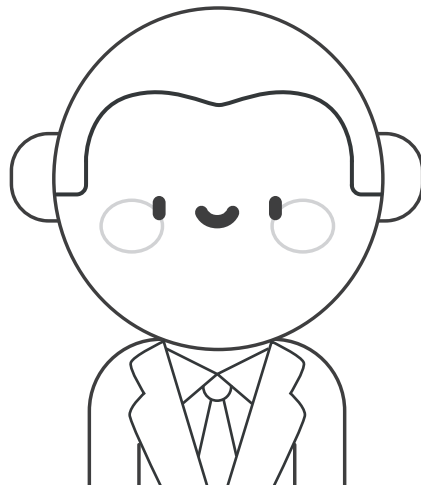

The average height of U.S. presidents is 5 feet 10 inches, which shows that voters prefer slightly taller than the average American male during the presidential election voting.

The first president in American history, George Washington, was 6 feet tall.

Barack Obama, the only African American president to date, is 6 feet and 2 inches tall.

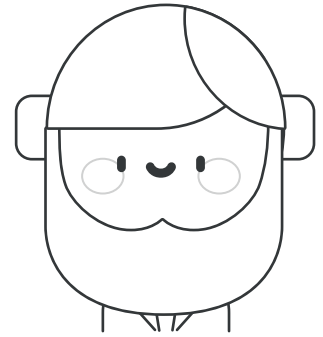

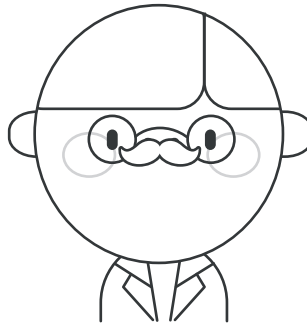

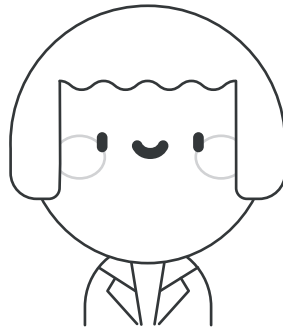

James Madison, the fourth president, was the shortest president at 5 feet 4 inches.

Presidents' Heights Facts

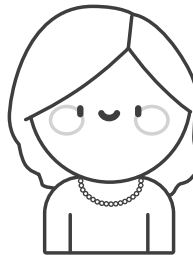

10 Fun Facts About Presidents' Heights

Each head in Mount Rushmore National Memorial is 60 ft high and depicts George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Theodore Roosevelt, and Abraham Lincoln.

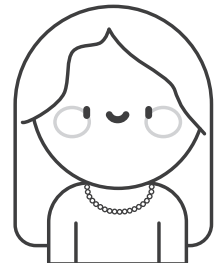

After Abraham Lincoln, the other 9 tallest presidents are: Lyndon B. Johnson, Thomas Jefferson, Donald Trump, George Washington, Chester A. Arthur, Franklin D. Roosevelt, George H. W. Bush, Bill Clinton, and Andrew Jackson.

Joe Biden is 6 feet tall, while Kamala Harris, vice president during his term, is 5 feet 3 inches.

Donald Trump is 6 feet 3 inches, and his wife, First Lady Melania Trump is 5 feet 11 inches.

After James Madison, the other 9 shorter presidents are Benjamin Harrison, Martin Van Buren, William McKinley, John Adams, John Quincy Adams, Ulysses S. Grant, Zachary Taylor, James K. Polk, and William Henry Harrison.

